What makes me human?

I ddechrau:

Are there any important differences?

Any similarities?

What makes us human?

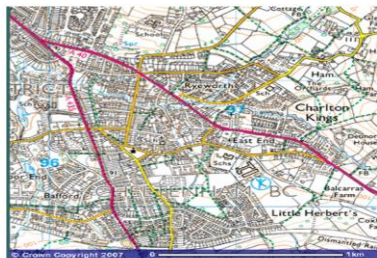

Why do volcanoes erupt?

WHY DO PEOPLE LIVE CLOSE TO VOLCANOES IF THEY ARE SO DESTRUCTIVE?

At first it may seem odd that people would want to live next door to a volcano. After all, volcanoes have a nasty habit of exploding and killing people! Yet, throughout history, people have deliberately chosen to risk all the hazards and live near them, even on the slopes of active volcanoes that have recently erupted.

Which of these maps is small scale and which is large scale?

How can we tell where places are on a map?

What happened to the Roman town of Pompeii?

What do these casts of Pompeii Citizens tell us?

Festivals

I am able to describe different religious and non-religious holidays.
I am able to explain why festivals are important and how they affect their followers.
I am able to explain why festivals are important and use examples appropriately to justify my reasons.

Festivals, feasts, celebrations, holy days (holidays - see where the word comes from?) are important.

They may be personal, national or religious. What they do is mark an occasion as being special. Sometimes it is special because of a person, sometimes because of an event - but it is always special because of ideas, values or principles that person or event stands for.

When we mark these special days we are made to stop and consider those values and to remember how important they are. Regularly doing this, each year, will hopefully lead to us adopting these values in our own lives.
